MARTIN BORMANN

On December 29, 1971, a source with whom insufficient contact has been made to determine his reliability, furnished the following information to a Special Agent of the Los Angeles Division of the FBI:

The source advised that in 1963 or 1964 while working with one Arno Warkentin who resides at 367 Agnes Street in Winnipeg, Manitoba, Canada, he had overheard Warkentin state that sometime prior to 1958, at which time Warkentin had lived in Chaco, Paraguay, that he had resided next to a man whom Warkentin knew to be a Nazi war criminal, Martin Bormann.

Source advised that Warkentin is a Ukrainian who was forced to fight in the German Army in World War II and that shortly after World War II, Warkentin had moved to South America and had settled in Chaco, Paraguay. The source advised that it was during the period that Warkentin was in Paraguay that he had lived next to Martin Bormann.

The source advised that the reason he had not made this information available sooner was that he was not familiar with the name Martin Bormann until just a short time ago when several of his friends were talking about the Nazi war criminal Martin Bormann. Source advised that he has telephoned Warkentin and informed him that he intended to go to the authorities with this information.
